Breaking Design Barriers Through Quality, Form and Function

In a world of endless finishes, materials, and products, the end result of any interior design project is infinite – but it takes a true innovator to pull all these elements together, take a seed of an idea from a client and cultivate it into an artistic reality. With unique environments that are both visually stunning and functional, Malgosia Migdal and MALGOSIA MIGDAL, LLC raise the bar by breathing new life into spaces large and small.

The boutique design firm started more than 20 years ago when Malgosia opened the doors of her office in the heart of Beverly Hills, CA, and hand-selected a small staff of experienced designers to join her team. With much of the Southern California landscape at her fingertips, Malgosia gained a true following from some of the area's most prominent entrepreneurs, business owners, film elites and socialites. The Company works in a variety of settings including private residences, condos, offices spaces and more.

As a design professional and a globally conscious citizen, Malgosia strives to bring green sensibilities into each of her newly designed homes. Together, the Company diligently works to incorporate environmentally friendly products and techniques into each project.

Whether it's working from the ground up with architects and contractors or supplying design services on renovations and interior redesigns, Malgosia's finished spaces directly reflect the taste of each individual client. Malgosia and her team also provide comprehensive project management, and are highly involved in all aspects of each project. With design associates that hail from some of the Country's most illustrious organizations, the team specializes in a variety of areas.

One such area of expertise is lighting design consultation, a skill that truly rounds out Malgosia's overall finished products. Her innate ability to logistically plan lighting schemes brings life to projects by dramatically illuminating spaces and exemplifying overall atmosphere – so much so that many of the contractors she works with often seek her out for advice on their final plans.

Malgosia is a world traveler, having visited over 35 different countries. With each trip she brings home an expanded understanding of design influences, history and culture. The Company's seamless melding of old and new, worldly influences, and attention to detail keep client projects fresh and innovation high.
